

Mark R. Hammond Associates will offer several sessions of social thinking groups this summer. Social thinking groups are designed for children with Asperger's Syndrome or high functioning ASD. Children will be grouped by age so the social expectations for each can be specifically addressed. Groups for younger children will address topics such as making friends, being part of a group, expressing feelings and cooperation. Topics for older children will include those listed above as well as managing anger, social expectations in different situations, fitting in, handling problems, coping with mistakes and
